Preface

WE have often wondered why the school has never had a year book. To be sure we have had THE REVIEW, but that was a magazine not representative of the Senior Class. A year book seemed desirable, and easy to obtain. A book containing photographs of each member of the class, and pages really representative of that class must prove a success. We do not expect perfection; far from it. However, in presenting to you The Year Book of 1913 we trust that our efforts have not been entirely unsuccessful.

City of Neetriht

Founded Anno Domini 1913

So read the inscription over the imposing gates above which the sightseers' aeroplane was passing. The guide lifted his megaphone, and began to shout something about the architecture of the gate, but the passengers were more interested in the various signs rising high above the different buildings for the enlightment of aeroplaners.

The first thing that met their eye was the bulletin of the results of the recent election:

Mayor, Mildred I. Aberle.

Great excitement is now caused among the sight-seers by smoke from the Neetriht Hangar. A clang of fire-bells is heard; and the engine, driven by C. F. Crowley, and manned by Tracy, Heanue and Pearson, rushes by, followed by a train of sparks.

Close behind, Dee drives the hook-and-ladder manned by Flynn, Hugues, McGowan, and Mayor. Chief Munroe now dashes by; he hasn't missed a fire in twenty years!!!!!

The sight-seers start to go to the fire, but stop on the way to watch the Suffragette Parade of Neetriht.

As the end of the Parade passed out of view, a veil of darkness descended over the city. The sight-seers, eager to start for home, could not find their aeroplane; nor, as they turned to make inquiries, was there a trace left of the beautiful city which they had just left. In it's place there sat an old, old man. In answer to their frightened questions, he would only answer the same thing over and over again.

"Neetriht is a magic city. It only comes to earth once in every hundred years."

MISS BROWN
GIRLS' PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

G. A. A.

President—Mildred I. Aberle, '13.
Vice-President—Helen Bolton, '14.
Secretary—Gladys G. Telfer, '13.

Three years ago the "Girls' Athletic Association of the Cambridge High and Latin School" was formed. It was one of the many wonderful things that our coach, Miss Brown, made possibly for the Cambridge High and Latin School. We are the only school in Greater Boston that has such an organization. The "Girls' Athletic Association" has not only benefited the Departent of Physical Education; it has also benefited the school, strengthened our school spirit, and helped greatly to promote a strong feeling of "sisterly love."

After much thoughtful work, our first executive committee, Mabel Jonas, Ruth Nash, Florence Wilson, Isabel Holway and Helen Long, together with Miss Brown, drew up a constitution, which was accepted by our association. The object of the association is to promote the highest form of physical education, and to develop a co-operative spirit of interest and enthusiasm in all its branches. All girls taking physical education are eligible to active membership in the association, and may become members by the annual payment of ten cents. A girl may retain her membership in the association only by good behavior, and by conforming with the articles of our constitution.

The officers of our association consist of a president, who must be a member of the Senior Class; a vice-president, with the additional duties of treasurer; a secretary, and an executive committee, consisting of five members, of which the president must be one. The practical business of the association is transacted by our executive committee. The members of this committee must be girls who can and will think. Our executive committee for 1912-'13 was: Grace Wardwell, Hester Boyce, Susie Foster and Mary Edwards. A large part of the success of this year is due to the unselfish efforts of these girls, and we cannot be too appreciative of their efficient work.

It may appear to some that our G. A. A. exists only for the purpose of holding "G. A. A. dances." It does not. Although we do not ignore the social part of our association, we nevertheless strive to develop a practical side to our G. A. A. One of the new undertakings of this year was the starting of a welfare committee. This committee communicates in various ways with the G. A. A. members who, because of illness, are unable to attend school. By means of this committee the G. A. A. keeps in touch with all its members, whether they are sick or well. The chairman of the welfare committee, upon whom a large portion of the work falls, deserves recognition for the willing, helpful spirit she has always shown. This capable chairman is Miss Elizabeth MacNaugher, '12, who has made a success of our welfare committee.

During the past winter, when the outrageous "fad-dancing" was at its height, we made a resolution that we would do all in our power to stop it. The dancing in the gymnasium at recess was restricted to certain dances. Miss Alice Harrington was put in charge of the gymnasium at recess, and, together with the Gymnasium Improvement Committee, successfully put a stop to this uncivilized dancing.

The social activities of the year open in the autumn with a reception to our new members. This year the reception took the form of a "Country Fair." Because of the willingness and enthusiasm of our G. A. A. girls, and our coach, Miss Brown, we were able to extend a most effective reception to our new members, that made them catch our G. A. A. spirit, never to lose it. We also hold two dancing parties during the year, one an all girl dance, and another to which each member invites a partner. At the "girl" dance half the members act the part of "gentlemen," and escort another member, who is the "lady."

The annual interclass meet, held under the auspices of the G. A. A., on May 2, was certainly a credit to us all, especially Miss Brown. The marching and drill were exceptionally fine. The dancing, won by the Juniors, was the prettiest and most attractive event on the programme. The Class of 1914 won the silver cup that Mr. Harold C. Durrell offered the class that made the highest number of points in the meet. The girls who won medals were: Helen Bolton, gold; Grace Wardwell, silver; Agnes Robbins, bronze. This year's meet was the greatest possible success. The G. A. A. thanks our ever willing friend, Mr. Bramhall, for his kind assistance at our meet.

The climax of our good times is reached at "The Picnic." For the past two years, through the generosity of Miss Brown, we have held our picnics at her home at Kendall Green. "The Picnic" means the best of jolly times, to which every member is most cordially invited and urged to come. It also means a reunion of our G. A. A. girls who have left the school. We arrange to leave in a body for Kendall Green, where we spend the day enjoying all the fun that makes "The Picnic" the most eagerly looked forward to, the most enjoyed and most pleasantly looked back upon of all the events of the year.

It is useless to try to find words that express our appreciation of our coach, instructor and friend, our beloved Miss Brown. Last, but not least, we acknowledge the kindly interest that our dear master, Mr. Cleveland, has always manifested in our G. A. A. affairs, and we wish to express our thanks and appreciation for his valuable assistance since the beginning of our association.

G. A. A. DANCE.

The Girls' Athletic Association gave their annual dance in the Latin School Gymnasium, April 25, 1913. About 200 couples attended, and although the floor was crowded, dancing was enjoyed until 11.30. The decorations were in charge of a committee composed of Edith Foster, Marion Kelsey, Agnes Rockwood, Ruth Singleton, Helen Stearns and Brenda Thomas. The committee gathered a vast number of college banners, and chose hand-made apple blossoms as a most effective means of decorating. Music was furnished by Smith's Orchestra. The patrons and matrons present were: Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Bramhall, Mrs. Bramhall, Miss Close and Miss MacIntyre.

Each couple was formally ushered to the Receiving Committee and introduced. The ushers were: Mildred Aberle, Hester Boyce, Susie Foster, Alice Harrington, Grace Wardwell, Mary Hickey, Ruth Singleton, Doris Carley, Rebecca Selfridge, Elizabeth MacNaugher and Mary Mahoney.

In all respects the G. A. A. dance of 1913 was considered a most brilliant success.

JOHN PAINTER

John Painter was an Artist
Of credit and renown,
Who had an airy studio
In famous London town.

But though he painted very well,
And worked from morn till night,
He could not sell his pictures, though
He tried with all his might.

Said he: "I'll be a cubist,
And say it's modern art;
But I want to be a pioneer
So right away I'll start."

He painted cubist pictures,
They had no shape nor form;
A picture of a stair case,
A picture of a storm,
A picture of a great parade,
A picture of a nude,
A picture of a waterfall,

He hung them in a large light hall,—
"One dollar please, admission."
The people came for miles to see
This "Cubist Exhibition."

His paintings went around the world;
Ten million people saw them;
And when at last he brought them back
He got six millions for them.

John Painter's now a millionare
Of credit and renown,
And has palatial mansions
In famous London town.

THE FOOTBALL TEAM.

The football team of last year, while not alarming in its success, on the whole was satisfactory. The outlook at the first of the season was poor. We got a bad start as things were very unsettled. There was doubt about the captaincy, and veterans were scarce. Then again, a good many of the fellows who came out had never played football before to any great extent. There was a good spirit, however, and that helped. We had three full elevens out at daily practice for a large part of the season. Some of the fellows hadn't a ghost of a chance to make the team or their letter, yet they stuck out every day. This is the sort of spirit that makes successful teams. On account of our being a green team, of course we developed slowly. Great credit is due to the coach for the way in which he drilled us, and got the work out of the team.

For the first few games it was sleepy football. We tied Quincy and St. Mark's, and lost to Somerville. The team really got going in the fourth game. While Everett beat us, yet that game was a great help, as we first learned how to fight together in it. We played a strong defensive game, as they scored only twice. That was the smallest score they made all season. The game with Newton was a big disappointment. While Newton's goal from the field was a fluke, yet we did not play good enough football to deserve to win. The game with Rindge was a hard fought one. We clearly outplayed them, but they managed to hold us to a tie. At Brockton we won our first game. The whole team played well together that day, despite the fact that two regulars were out. Just before the Brookline game, prospects were bad. We defeated them, however, for the first time since 1907. This was our biggest success. On Thanksgiving Day we played Waltham. We were winning, when in the last of the game poor judgment and a questionable decision by the referee allowed them to tie us. The team was very disappointed to lose the victory at the last moment.

Thus, when everything has been taken into consideration, the season was not bad. I wish to thank all those who helped make the season a success, and I give my best wishes to next year's leader for a great season.

Hockey

The hockey prospects for 1912-1913 seemed most bright, as Captain Sands had five veterans for the team in Thomas, Baker, Bradley, Wells and Martin. Manager Sydney Rogers arranged a good schedule, and the team hoped to win the championship. A new plan was put in practice by the captain before the regular season began. This plan was to have class games, and to award the winners class numerals. Each team was to be coached by a veteran of the previous year, who was to show the new material the fine points of the game. The men were allotted to the teams as follows: Thomas, 1913; Wells, 1914; Bradley, 1915, and Baker and Martin, 1916. A lot of spirit was shown by the different classes, as over one hundred men came out. A series of three games was played, in which the Seniors won by defeating the Juniors and Freshmen. The Freshmen came second by defeating the Sophomores, and the Juniors and Sophomores were tied for third place. The winning team, which was ably coached by Thomas, was composed of the following men: Captain Rogers, Nash, Coward, Chamberlain, Sanborn, Milton, White, Ellis, Warren and McKenzie. After this inter-class series, the most promising players were retained on the varsity squad. The first team started the season with the following line-up: Nash, right wing; Thomas, right center; Captain Sands, rover; Baker, left wing; Bradley, coverpoint; Sanborn, point, and C. White, goal. On account of the unseasonable weather, the first game played was unfortunately a league game with Newton in the Arena. In this game the team was defeated on account of the lack of practice. Shortly after this Boston Latin was defeated by the overwhelming score of 13-0. This was one of the largest scores made by any school team during the season. The next game played was with the Alumni, which was composed of crack players of former years. The team played excellent hockey in this game, and the Alumni was defeated 4-0. In the next game, with Melrose, although we played better hockey than our opponents, we were defeated by the score of 2-1. The following week the team travelled to Exeter, where they were again beaten by the narrow margin of one goal. The game was well played in spite of the soft ice, and we were ahead until about five minutes before the end of the game, when Exeter tied the score and finally won out. The next week proved to be very cold, and practice was held every day on the Charles River. During this week the team vanquished Medford, 3-0, and also triumphed over Rindge in a practice game, 6-0. Then came our second league game. By defeating Brookline 8-0 in this game we gained second place in the Triangular League. To wind up the season, we played Rindge at the Arena. In a very close and interesting game we were defeated 1-0, the deciding goal being scored in the last few minutes of play.

The School Committee was kind enough to supply us with a large rink between the schools, but owing to the unfavorable weather conditions no important games could be played on it. The second team used it once for a game with the Arlington second team.

It was pleasing to note that the fellows showed great spirit throughout the season. Baker, Thomas, Bradley, Captain Sands and Wells excelled throughout the season, and Nash, Sanborn, Sandiford and Coward played brilliant hockey at times. For the second team, Dee, Fitzgerald and Mosher showed signs of future skill. Rogers, who managed the team and who was captain of the second, played a consistently good game.

Although there are but two veterans coming back for next year's team, we should turn out a first-class team with all the promising material in the school, providing we have a rink at Russell Field, and the same spirit prevails which was so much in evidence this year.

Crew

For years Latin School has prided herself upon her crews. In eight seasons she has won three championships, finished second four times, and secured a place as low as third only once. It is greatly to be hoped that such a reputation will be sustained both this year and in the years to come. But the graduation, last June, of Tuttle, Harrington and Captain Coleman of the championship 1912 crew, makes the task of rounding out a winning four unusually difficult. For this reason, the assistance, as coach, of E. Baker, last year's coxswain, has been of inestimable value.

The rowing season of 1913 began on March 4, when candidates reported in the gymnasium for a preliminary course in physical training. The material, although light, proved willing and teachable. Flynn and Gilman, of last year's second crew, were rapidly developing into excellent oarsmen at the close of the season, and are now berthed in the first boat. French, a new man, has also proved his ability to sit in the first shell. The crews at present are rowing in the following order:

	First	Second
Bow	C. French	H. Kerr
Two	W. Gilman	W. Long
Three	R. Flynn	H. G. Killam
Stroke	I. C. Whittemore	K. M. MacKinnon
Cox	L. J. Rogers	P. Coleman

In the second boat, Killam in particular is pushing the regular men hard for a place.

Latin School will row Pomfret, on the Quinnebaug River, Connecticut, May 24. The B. I. R. A. Regatta will come June 3 and 5, on the Charles.

Although the crews this year are by no means the best that Latin School has produced, the men are a fighting lot, and deserve the support of the student body.

Base Ball

The prospects for the team were unquestionably bright at the beginning of the season. Of last year's team only three men were lost. Although their number was small, their loss was great, as they were the leading batters of the team. With a nucleus of seven men to rely on, a good team was anticipated.

The disappointment was great, however, when it was learned that three more men, because of illness or ineligibility, would not be able to play. This was discouraging, since we were deprived of a pitcher, shortstop and third baseman.

We were still further handicapped when the Park Commissioners decided not to allow the team to use the new Russell Field until May 30th. This announcement compelled us to use the diamond on the Cambridge Common when it was available, scarcely ever more than twice a week.

Preliminary battery practice was held in the gymnasium, under the supervision of Mr. O'Flaherty. The first few games were played with varied success. The team received a little encouragement when our third baseman, Donald Sands, and our shortstop, Thomas McNamara, returned to play.

The pitching problem has been a very difficult one to solve all season. Edward McCarthy, last year's twirler, was unable to play because of parental objections. No capable substitute reported in the preliminary practice, with the result that practically every regular tried his hand at pitching, thus weakening the strong positions.

At the present writing the team is greatly improved. Victories over Volkman, Tech '15, and the Harvard Freshmen have shown that the team is capable of playing good ball, and a victory over Rindge and the championship of the Triangular League is expected.

Drama and Dance

The drama and dance of the Senior class was held in Brattle Hall, Friday evening, April 11. It was one of the most successful affairs ever conducted by members of the school. The success of the production was due, in a great measure, to the enthusiastic support which the members of the class gave to it from the very outset.

The trials for parts were held Friday afternoon, January 31, in the Latin School Hall. Over sixty members of the class tried out for the various parts. The play selected was "Valley Farm," a strong drama in four acts, written by the well-known playwriter, A. L. Tubbs.

The play was produced under the direction of Mr. Walter I. Cowlishaw, who has coached the school plays in Cambridge many years. Mr. Cowlishaw's judgment in selecting the cast of the play was proved most excellent by the splendid performance which was given by them.

The part of Harold Rutledge, a good-natured and easily influenced young man, was played by Donald Sands in the most praiseworthy manner. Richard Milton, as Perry Deane, an impulsive and somewhat outspoken young man, took the part with great vigor and force. Irving Whittemore showed to good advantage as David Hildreth, a stern and business-like lawyer. The part of Silas Holcomb, a typical farmer, was played by Alan Martin, who brought frequent applause from the audience by his quaint, inimitable humor. Harold Schlaffhorst assumed the character of Aziriah Heep in a most natural and humorous manner. One of the most comical features of the production was the acting of Francis Heanue, whose ridiculous appearance and rigid countenance added considerably to the part of Jennings, the butler of the Rutledge mansion. The part of Hetty Holcomb, the fiancee of Harold Rutledge, was taken by Miss Agnes Robbins, who displayed a naturalness and grace of manner which was most charming. Miss Mabel Ferguson, as Isabel Carney, a proud and haughty city damsel, took her part in the most effective and commendable fashion. The dignified and stately character of Mrs. Rutledge was assumed by Miss Mary Brennan, who was as haughty and as proud as an aristocratic mother might be. Miss Harriet Leonard, in the part of Lizy Ann Tucker, a fussy little woman, showed great talent, and evoked much laughter and applause. Alvirah Holcomb was played remarkably well by Miss Ida Dewey, whose performance was greatly commended. Great mirth was occasioned by the droll manner of Miss Mary Tisdale in the part of Verbena, a raw country girl.

The management of the affair was in charge of a committee composed of Edward J. J. McCarthy, chairman; Joseph Dee, Miss Agnes Robbins, Miss Mabel Ferguson, Walter Durnan and Donald Sands.

1912 NOTES.

The members of the Class of 1912, who returned to this school to complete their studies as post-graduates, have had a very pleasing addition to the usual four-year course. They are few in number, but for this very reason they have become better acquainted with their classmates than ever before. Nearly all of them have been grouped together in one room, and as none have been overburdened with work, they have kept things lively most of the time. As post-graduates, they should have had more dignity than their younger comrades, but, so far as can be seen, none of this has been displayed around the school.

The only activity as a class was shown when they gave a successful dance in the school gymnasium in January.

In athletics the post-grads have done their share, if we take into consideration their small number. Edmund Bradley was captain of the football team, and also played hockey. Malcolm Derry played regularly on the football team. Sydney Rogers managed the hockey team, and was coxswain on the crew. Among the girls, Miss Sylvia Carter gained a place on the basketball team, which was managed by Miss Grace Wardwell.

The members of this class, including a few who came from other schools, are as follows:—

M. Ella Ball
J. Edmund Bradley
Katherine Bragg
Sylvia E. Carter
Walter Charak
H. Fay Cobb
C. Malcolm Derry
Christine R. Erickson
Gertrude Gorman
Bertha M. Govan
Alice H. Graustein

JUNIOR CLASS NOTES.

Class Officers.

President—Ralph Jones.
Vice-President—Anna Kelley.
Secretary—Marcia Holt.
Treasurer—Mary Mahoney.
Social Committee—Charlotte Woods, Anna Kelley, Gertrude O'Neil, Mary Mahoney, Archie McKenzie.

In February the class held a social in the gymnasium. There were about thirty couples. The evening was a success, everything going without a hitch. Much-sought refreshments were served at Tim's counter. The Colonial Orchestra furnished the music. Patron, Mr. Derry. Patronesses, Miss Harris, Miss Parker.

On April 9th, the annual dance at the Newtowne Club came off. The Colonial Orchestra once more produced the music. Fifty couples, most of them pupils of the school, came. The dance lasted until twelve o'clock. Patron and patronesses—Mr. Bramhall, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. O'Neil, Miss Harris.

SOPHOMORE CLASS NOTES.

Miss G——: "Rush, is that you talking?"

Rush: "Yes'm."

Miss G——: "Well, come down here in this front seat." Then, speaking to the French class: This is one of my kindergarten scholars, and I wish to introduce him to you."

"Stand up here, Rush."

Rush stood up in the front of the room and made a graceful bow.

Teacher: "Why can't you recite this theorem with the figure turned this way? I suppose you could do it if it was drawn in the position as in the book."

Pupil: "Well, I suppose I could, but I have to turn my head round to see it, and it makes my neck stiff."

Miss Young's French class has been turned into a vaudeville show. Songs a specialty. Ask Miss Dunning.

A teacher, asking for an English word derived from the Laitn word "minimum," the answer came, "Minnie."

The following tragedy was enacted in Miss Parker's room, third hour:

Miss P,—"O'Brien, three of your themes have I."

O'Brien—"I should worry."

FRESHMAN CLASS NOTES.

The Class of 1916 brought a larger number of pupils into the school than any other entering class. In February the class was augmented by many mid-year grammar school graduates. Now 1916 has the distinction of being the largest class in the school.

The first election of class officers will take place during the next school year, as no election was held during the closing year. There are many in the class whom we would like to honor with offices, and we are looking forward to the opportunity to do so.

A pupil in ancient history was asked by the teacher to describe the temperament of a certain nation. The pupil responded immediately: "Sometimes they were sad, sometimes glad, and other times just medium."

Quite a conclusive description of any people.

We have not been very prominent in the school athletics, but hope to do better later. We had a very promising candidate for the football team from our class in the person of Crocker, one of our huskiest, and we expect much from him and others in the future.

It is a day in December. The wood on the hearth burns brightly, and Reb, Nes and Peggy are sitting around it.

The following conversation takes place:

"If we go out on the lake next summer, will Miss Munroe us?" asks Reb.

"I don't know," replies Nes; "but perhaps Dorothy Haywood."

"Is that the picture Stella McAndrew?"

"Yes. Don't you think it is better than Loretta Brandon?"

"It is too nice to stay in today," says Peggy. "Let's go out and coast down Churchill."

"All right," says Reb; "but we will have to stear straight so as to Dodge the other sleds."

"My!" exclaimed Reb, as Nes got up from the floor, "what a pretty buckle you have on your dress!"

"Yes," replied Nes; "that is called a Chapin."

Soon loud laughter could be heard on Churchill, and apparently everybody was Gay.

The G. A. A. picnic is looked forward to by the Freshmen with great joy and anticipation, especially as it is going to be at Kendall Green, which is, they are told, the most beautiful spot in Massachusetts.

The Freshmen are still rejoicing over their success in the "meet." ? ? ?

The Freshmen wish to take this opportunity to thank Miss Brown for all the time she has given up to them this year.

A trio known as the "S. L. N.," composed of Freshmen, may be seen daily outside the gymnasium door about 7.45 A. M., waiting to be let in. Now, I wonder what they are there for!

THE LAW OF THE CLASS ROOM

This is the law of the class room,
  And one that is easy to tell,
And one that our teacher enforces:
  "Don't move at the sound of the bell"!

The bell rings, and we rush from our places,
  Mr. Campbell looks round with a frown,
And chill fear pervades our whole beings
  As he sternly exclaims: "Set ye down!"

So this is the law we must bow to,
  That each quietly stay in his place,
Till Mr. Campbell is ready
  To dismiss us with calmness and grace.
